Controversy clouds trustee election

Storm of complaints strikes S-Senate

By Terry Martin
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Clouds of controversy hovered over and then burst into a storm of complaints lodged against candidates Monday concerning the Wednesday student trustee and Student Senate election.

In a time span of an hour, Student Body President Mike Carr and Senate Election Commissioner Steve Nuckles each made and then reversed decisions regarding a candidate in the senate election.

Nuckles said he received four written complaints that Ron Adams, candidate for eastside dorm, was not a member and did not have the endorsement of Action Party, which he listed as his party affiliation.

Adams also had a letter-to-the-editor published in Saturday's edition of the Daily Egyptian but the Student Senate election rules state that "no candidate shall cause a letter written by him to appear in the DE during the week before the election."

Nuckles then decided to rule in favor of Adams, saying, "He was ignorant of the rule stating his name should not appear in the DE and the statement had nothing to do with his campaign for senator. The fact that he is a senator now also is in his favor," Nuckles said.

Nuckles also ruled in favor of Adams remaining an Action Party candidate. "It doesn't say anywhere in the rules that he has to have the support of the party he lists," Nuckles said. "They (Action Party) have no list of members; it's in the minds of the guys who run Action Party and that's about it."

Carr, within a half hour, then announced that the Student Senate would hold a special meeting Tuesday because Action Party officials were contesting Nuckles' decision. Carr also ordered the halt of ballot printing for the senate election because of the obvious party discrepancy.

Within five minutes, Nuckles reversed his previous decision and said, "Adams has to run as an independent." Nuckles based his decision on a list he received at 2 p.m. Monday from Action Party officials naming members within its organization, of which Adams is not a member.

Earlier, Nuckles said there was no list.

Carr then cancelled the special senate meeting and his order to halt the printing of the ballots.

Another complaint was voiced by Larry I. Roth and Diane Johnson, senate candidates, concerning Nuckles' decision to list them as independents rather than Alliance for Radical Students (ARS) on the ballot.

Friday, Nuckles declared the ARS and Reform parties as illegal because the organizations did not go through the proper channels to get recognized. As a result, Ms. Johnson, Roth, Maurice Richards and Garry Seltzer will be listed on the ballot as independents.

Roth said ARS was recognized by the Student Senate on Oct. 31 as an organization and met the four-week in advance requirement established in the election laws.

"Jim Kama (senate vice president) didn't sign our application until Nov. 28," Roth said. The group then submitted its application to the Student Activities office the same day for official validation, Roth said.

Because of its refusal to sign a clause on the form stating, "and do not advocate the overthrow by force of the government of the U.S.," it was not given administrative recognition, Roth said.

"In terms of the University, we are not recognized but in terms of the Student Senate, we are," Roth said. "We feel it should only be up to students to recognize student groups, not administrators," Ms. Johnson said.

Roth said the SIU Legal Council and an American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) representative are checking into the legality of the form and constitutionality of the statement, required to be signed.

"It is a basic injunction of our civil rights," Roth said. He said the matter may be taken up in a small actions court in conjunction with the Young Workers Liberation League, another campus group that was refused official recognition earlier this year.

Complaints against candidates running for the student trustee election have also been lodged although only one has been written and turned in to the four-man commission.

Because of a trustee candidate talking as a guest on a Sunday program, WTAO radio station in Murphysboro received calls from two candidates demanding equal time, Ken Walker, program director said.

Walker said he was aware of the Federal Communications Commission

SIU officials fear budget cut may slash 800 from next year's staff

By Marcia Bullard
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

If budget cutbacks are as severe as SIU administrators anticipate, as many as 800 faculty and administrative personnel could lose their jobs next year.

The Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE) votes Tuesday on the 1974-75 budgets for SIU and other state universities. SIU officials fear a slash of nearly $3 million.

"I don't see how we could take a cut that size and do without eliminating some jobs," said Keith Leasure, vice president for academic affairs Monday. Leasure estimates there is a surplus of 863 faculty and administrative personnel at SIU according to the 22:1 student-faculty ratio recommended by the Carnegie Commission.

All the "extra personnel" will probably not be eliminated, however. Programs with declining enrollment and interest and new programs will be the first to go, with appropriate reductions in staff, Leasure said.

Both tenured and non-tenured positions will face elimination if job cutbacks become necessary, Leasure said.

Under the by-laws of the Board of Trustees, a faculty member who holds tenure may have his appointment terminated by the University "only for adequate cause, such as moral turpitude, incompetence, willful neglect of duty, financial exigency, or cutbacks in program." Leasure said a $3 million budget slash would bring on program cutbacks, resulting in "financial exigency" under which a tenured faculty member may lose his job.

"I would hate very much to do it, but it might be necessary," Leasure said. Although there are only about 600 tenured faculty members on campus, Leasure said many of them are in departments with decreasing enrollments. They would be among the first to be considered in the cutback measures, he said.

Administrative personnel who might lose jobs include assistants to deans, staff assistants, coordinators and directors of small projects on campus.

Leasure's projections came in response to a statement by IBHE executive director Cameron West that SIU's faculty numbers have not reflected a student enrollment decline of 20 per cent in the past two years. In a story in the Southern Illinoisan Friday, West was quoted as saying SIU has 1,801 faculty members this year.

Leasure thought the figure was too high and spent the weekend analyzing the breakdown of faculty, administrative and civil service employees at SIU. He counted 1,410 faculty members and administrators with faculty rank.

Although Leasure's figure is lower than West's, Leasure said the number is still too high according to Carnegie Commission recommendations.

In a letter to SIU President David R. Derge, Leasure explained the difference in figures is probably due to cross-listing of administrators with faculty rank. Computer print-out sheets would record a faculty member as an instructor in one department and again as an administrator, so he or she would be counted twice. Leasure said it is "quite easy" for misunderstandings such as that to develop.

"I just wanted to be sure that Dr. Derge knows what to explain to West Tuesday," Leasure said. "If we are both talking about the same figures, we

(FCC) law that states candidates for offices must be given comparable time but was not aware of a candidate's appearance on the program until it happened.

"It is not required by us that we have to let all the candidates know before we have someone on the air," Walker said. "Each candidate has been offered the opportunity for comparable time but we still have six candidates to go."

"Duncan Koch, candidate, spoke on the importance of a big voter turnout for the election on my program, 'Tree of Life,'" Rabbi Earl Vinecour said.

Vinecour said he was not aware of the controversy that would brew from such an action.

"One of the other candidates, Matthew Rich, put in an article in Kol Shalom about House Bill 1628 (which allows a student representative on the Board of Trustees)," Vinecour said. "Should I not include the article just because a candidate wrote it?"

"It was my first show and everyone should be allowed to make some mistakes," Vinecour said. "It would be totally unfair to blame WTAO or Kol Shalom."

WTAO Station Owner Bill Varcha said he was unaware of Koch's invitation to the show.

"The Rabbi invited him unbeknownst to us," Varcha said. "We prewarned against such activities going on. We don't mind, but it's kind of difficult getting 12 candidates on the air."

The election commission received one written complaint about Rich's picture appearing in the DE last week, witnessing its drawing of names from a hat to determine the ballot order.

"It was not a violation by Rich," Nuckles said. "The election commission itself violated that law. The election commission takes the responsibility for that and shouldn't affect Matthew Rich at all because we asked him to be in it."

Nuckles said, "Anyway, the following Friday, all the candidates with the exception of George Kocan, appeared on page one of the DE."

"Above all the pre-election complaints, I want everyone to take a close look at all the candidates and vote," Nuckles said.

Editors visit SIU to study DE

By Marcia Bullard
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A committee of five professional newspaper editors will visit the SIU campus Saturday, Dec. 15 to study the operation of the Daily Egyptian.

The visit will climax a review of the paper which the group began in October. Committee members plan to meet with School of Journalism faculty members, students and employees of the Daily Egyptian.

SIU President David R. Derge named the committee in early October and gave its members a "carte blanche" charge in reviewing the paper. Derge said he wants the committee to work towards "something that will be the best possible professional experience for journalism students."

The committee will meet at 9 a.m. Dec. 15 on campus, according to George Killenberg, managing editor of the St.

Louis Globe-Democrat. He said the committee members are now working on names of people to be invited to the meeting and said director of the school Bryce Rucker "will definitely be on the list."

Tom Phillips, editor of the Pana News-Palladium, visited the Daily Egyptian last week to learn about the paper's operation. He said at that time he could not understand why the committee would come to SIU on a Saturday "because you have to see the operation itself before making any decisions."

Committee member C.L. Blanton III, editor of the Sikeston (Mo.) Standard, said last week it "might be hard getting other people to talk to us on a weekend." Blanton said he had hoped to visit would be put off until early next quarter so the committee could come in mid-week.

"We're not reviewing the operation of the paper," said Killenberg Monday. "I get the Egyptian every day and know what it's like. We had to find a day when everyone could get away from work to come to Carbondale. Saturday is the best day for all of us."

Committee members have already met with Derge and studied background material provided by the administration, the School of Journalism faculty and Egyptian fiscal officer Howard R. Long.

Killenberg said the committee "doesn't want to antagonize faculty members by coming on a Saturday, but if they can't find time to come for 10 minutes when members can come 100 miles, then they shouldn't complain."

Other committee members are Wendell Philippi, managing editor of the Indianapolis News and William Morgan, publisher of the Sparta News-Plainsdealer.

City Council action prohibits hunting at Cedar Lake

By Dan Haar
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

No hunting will be allowed on land owned by Carbondale in the Cedar Lake area as a result of City Council action

Monday night.

The council unanimously approved the Planning Commission's proposed policies for Cedar Lake development planning and operation with the exception of permitting hunting with shotgun and shotshell.

Council members showed concern over the safety hazard which the allowance of hunting would cause. Councilwoman Helen Westberg said she had contacted representatives of the U.S. Forest Service and the Crab Orchard Reserve and property owners near the city owned Cedar Lake area.

"I have come to the conclusion that hunting is not feasibly compatible on city land," she said.

Councilman Hans Fischer complimented the research of the Planning Commission adding that he would like to see stricter measures enforced in the Cedar Lake area.

He said he realized more stringent rules and regulations were not realistic. He termed the Planning Commission's recommendations "practical but cautioned that hunting in the area would be incompatible with the other recreational activities."

Councilman Archie Jones agreed saying that he thought hunting would be a safety hazard in the area.

The Planning Commission's recommendations, as approved by the City Council, allows swimming in designated areas. Boating is permitted with a 10 horsepower limit imposed on motors. Only pole and line type fishing is allowed.

Camping and picnicking is also allowed in the area in designated places only.

With the approval of the policies, the Planning Commission will begin developing a land use plan within the framework of the guidelines.

James Rayfield, city planning director, has indicated that the commission's recommendations on land use will probably not be ready until Spring, 1974.

An ordinance amending the precinct boundaries for city elections and ordinances annexing and zoning about 300 acres of the J.W. Land Trust were also scheduled on the agenda as the meeting continued at a late hour.

Taylor says oldsters are 'catching up'

By David Kornblith
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Harold Taylor, educator and chairman of the U.S. Committee for the United Nations University, told an international crowd Monday night that the older generation is finally "catching up" with views held by many young people.

Speaking at the Second Annual George S. Counts lecture, Taylor said the general population has come to share the attitudes the young people hold in their disbelief of the government and other institutional bodies.

Taylor was referring to a recent Harris poll that indicated that 53 percent of Americans feel there is something wrong in this country.

In his talk, "The Self and Its Discontents," Taylor said there was a "collective consciousness on the part of youth today "to see that they would be part of the decision making process that effects them."

"People do not accept their positions in society the way they used to," Taylor said. "Students are examples of this increasing sensitivity." Taylor was speaking of the increasing student role in government and life in general.

"They have been the avant-garde to a higher degree of self-consciousness," Taylor said. The self-conscious Taylor talked about seemed to be the collective learning experiences a person acquires over his or her life.

Harold Taylor

Taylor referred to three instances in which the student of today, and the last ten years, has become a more influential person in government, university and general events.

"Students have opened up the entire university system," Taylor said. Taylor added that students have rejected the university system "based on inequality and the hierarchy of elites."

The second instance in which students have become more aware of what is around them is in the area of college curricula. Students have come to realize, Taylor said, that the political and cultural courses are designed to control and maintain the present system.

Current politics and economics of society "perpetuates the worst evils in the varying societies," Taylor said.

The final instance in which students have made a recent in-road is in the field of equality with faculty and boards of universities. A general insistence exists with the students of today, Taylor said, that any decision to be made by persons in authority must include student views also.

should be able to work out an understanding."

Leasure said all major units in the university will be reviewed. Schools and Colleges will be asked to prepare budget recommendations incorporating the cutbacks and the administration will then review those suggestions. Leasure said the Schools and Colleges will have to decide what to give up.

Including the schools of medicine and law, SIU has a total of 1,108 full-time equivalent faculty members without administrative appointments. There are 302 administrators, some of them with faculty rank and 596 civil service employees. Leasure included the first two figures in his calculation of the number of faculty and administrative personnel at SIU.

Teaching faculty at SIU numbers 950 (excluding medicine and law). The remainder are supporting faculty who are employed in the Library, clinical center and Division of Continuing Education and International Education.

Neither Leasure nor campus treasurer Dan Orescanin would comment Monday on West's statement that Master Plan Phase III for higher education in Illinois has been scrapped. Leasure said he hesitates to accept a newspaper report as proof of the IBHE action.

If the IBHE has abandoned Phase III, it may mean the end of SIU's mission to become the second major comprehensive university in Illinois. However, Orescanin said he would wait until the IBHE redefines SIU's goals before commenting on the status of Phase III.

The IBHE asked SIU in October for a recommendation as to the future possibilities of Phase III in light of tight budgets. Derge then asked various constituencies for their opinions on Phase III and he planned to send those on to the IBHE. Orescanin said constituencies have not had time to respond to Derge's request and Derge has not made any comment to the IBHE yet.

Sex bias hearing against SIU fails to close

By Diane Mizialko
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Two special weekend sessions of the Illinois Fair Employment Practices Commission (FEPC) Canut-Amoros sex discrimination hearing failed to bring the complainant's case against SIU to its anticipated close.

Last Friday, Sylvia Roberts, attorney for Ms. Canut-Amoros, said weekend sessions would enable her to wrap up her client's case, but when the hearing adjourned late Sunday afternoon, four witnesses called by the complainant remained unheard.

Saturday, Thomas Jefferson, dean of the School of Engineering and Technology, completed his testimony and was followed on the stand by Charles Bernardoni, director of SIU General Accounting.

While questioning Bernardoni, Ms. Roberts touched on the subject of a U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare audit of a U.S. Air Force research grant held by Ms. Canut-Amoros while a professor of applied science. FEPC Hearing Examiner William Regas asked Bernardoni to re-take the stand Sunday to produce documents relating to the audit.

After Bernardoni's Sunday morning stint on the stand, John Huffman, SIU Legal Counsel, moved to have all Bernardoni's testimony for that day stricken from the record on grounds of irrelevance. After examining the documents, Regas granted the motion.

Ms. Roberts next called Jerry Lacey, assistant to the vice president for development and services and SIU Affirmative Action Officer. Lacey will be re-called to finish his testimony when the hearing reconvenes next month.

Other witnesses set to testify before the complainant's case is completed are Warren Buffum, SIU Budget Director; James Brown, Chief of Board Staff and Ms. Canut-Amoros herself.

Ms. Canut-Amoros said Monday the testimony offered Saturday and Sunday was "marvelous" for her case. Lacey's testimony, especially, was "beautiful," she said. Ms. Canut-Amoros claimed Lacey's testimony highlighted SIU's vague reasons for denying her summer employment in 1971.

Huffman said Monday his interpretation of Lacey's testimony is "completely different" from Ms. Canut-Amoros'.

Huffman, who will open SIU's defense in January, said it will take a "substantial period of time" to present the University's side of the story.

The FEPC, according to Hearing Examiner Regas, is "disturbed" about the inordinate length of the Canut-Amoros proceedings. The FEPC's involvement in the case began in May, 1972 when Ms. Canut-Amoros filed charges against SIU with the commission.

At that time, an HEW decision in favor of Ms. Canut-Amoros was under dispute by SIU. HEW's involvement in the case ended this August, when Ms. Canut-Amoros turned down a settlement arranged through HEW negotiators.

During the course of her complaints against SIU Ms. Canut-Amoros has turned down at least four settlement offers. The most recent offer, made in October, included $50,000 in back pay and reinstatement as a tenured full professor.

Ms. Canut-Amoros has based her FEPC complaint on SIU President David R. Derge's failure in early 1972 to reinstate her with the University allegedly because she opposed sex discrimination which he claims was practiced against her by Dean Jefferson in 1970-71.

Jefferson's treatment of her, Ms. Canut-Amoros has said, led to her resignation from "his school" in May, 1971. The resignation was accepted by Jefferson, the SIU Chancellor's office and the Board of Trustees as a resignation from the University, despite Ms. Canut-Amoros protests to the contrary.

Fireman missing in train wreck

By Rafe Klinger
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Some 30 men with shovels and aided by bulldozers continued to search through thousands of tons of coal Monday for a railroad fireman missing since a train wreck Sunday near Cobden.

Bill Baltzell of Centralia is the missing fireman of the southbound freight which plowed head-on into a northbound freight. Both freights were Illinois Central Gulf (ICG) trains.

Three other crewmen were killed in the crash and one other was injured seriously.

Injured fatally were Don Schedelbower, engineer of the southbound train; R.D. Taylor, engineer of the northbound train; and R.W. Arning, head brakeman of the northbound train. All three men were from Centralia.

Injured seriously and in fair condition at Barnes Hospital in St. Louis is fireman Ronald Haack, 25, of Mascoutah, Ill. A hospital spokeswoman said Haack was under treatment for second degree burns about the face, hands, and chest, a broken leg and minor lacerations.

Deputy Sheriff Glenn Rosson, Union County Sheriff's police, said rescue workers were searching through piles of coal, spilled by derailed coal cars in the wreck, for the missing body of Baltzell.

"They could have cleared the tracks of wreckage earlier but the men were slowed down by the search," Rosson said.

By late Monday afternoon, the right-of-way had been cleared and the derailed cars pulled to the shoulder of the grade, he said. Railroad workers were laying new track while other workers continued to search for Baltzell, Rosson reported.

According to an ICG spokesman, three diesel engines from each train were derailed and heavily damaged by the collision. Approximately 30 cars from the northbound freight and five from the southbound also left the tracks. Included were some 10 coal cars, carrying between 65-100 tons of coal each, which spilled their loads in the collision. A fire resulted from spilled diesel fuel from the six locomotives.

The wreck occurred after the northbound freight, containing 140 cars, was rerouted onto the southbound lane because of track repairs, the spokesman said. The train was later ordered to return to the northbound tracks but failed to do so and collided with the 60-car southbound freight.

Investigations into the reasons for the collision will begin after the missing crewman is found, the spokesman said.

Meanwhile, rail traffic has been rerouted through Murphysboro and Fulton, Ky., until the main line between Carbondale and Cairo has been cleared of wreckage, the spokesman said.

Nixon releases milk fund tape

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House has decided to surrender to a federal judge a bundle of documents in the milk fund case, including a tape recording of a key meeting between President Nixon and top administration officials, government lawyers said Monday.

Irwin Goldblum, the Justice Department attorney in the case, said the turnover could come as early as Tuesday. But he added that the White House continues to claim the materials are protected by executive privilege and will ask U.S. District Judge William B. Jones to keep the documents secret.

The materials were demanded by consumer advocate Ralph Nader in a civil suit charging that the Nixon administration raised milk price supports in 1971 in exchange for more than $200,000 in secret contributions from the dairy industry to the Nixon re-election campaign.

The tape would be the first to be released not related directly to Watergate.

The tape is of a White House meeting on March 23, 1971 that is one day after the dairy industry made the first of many secret contributions to the campaign and two days before the administration reversed a 13-day-old decision not to increase the federal support price for milk.

Nader lawyers have said that meeting appeared to be a critical one in the abrupt policy change which by industry estimates was worth some $300 million to $700 million to the nation's dairy farmers.

In the morning, Nixon and his top agricultural and economic advisers met with dairy industry representatives to discuss the support program. There are conflicting reports about whether a tape of that meeting in the Cabinet Room of the White House exists.

Let's look at reality

To the Daily Egyptian:

Emotions too soon cloud reason. To equate Christianity with genocide is irrational. To equate the existence of something, that is, homosexuality, with its correctness without a thorough investigation is irrational. And to equate honesty with homosexuality is irrational, for those who resort to homosexuality are only involving themselves in the extremes of conditioned role playing. The homosexual's contention that he is only being honest with himself and is not seeking to escape reality is a defense mechanism—the very opposite appears true. If we are going to search for truth in our lives we must first take a look at reality, that which is. There are two sexes, not one, but two. In deciding what is natural this fact must be considered completely.

There is one thing all of us must try to remember, that we are our brother's keeper. In my discussions with gay people there are several factors which emerge. In this so-called straight society the homosexual feels very much alone. Too often his only friends are other gay people. The rest of us turn our backs on the homosexuals and ridicule them, often at points in their lives when they need our friendship very much. He has no one to turn to but other gay people and we in turn ridicule him for it; we are in effect ridiculing ourselves as we are at least partially to blame. But we do not accept responsibility for this but rather push the blame off on to others. So the rest of us are, like the homosexual, also engaged in role playing. We all have to face reality, we all have to face our responsibilities and strive to be our brother's keeper.

Too many problems arise, it seems, when we confuse sex with love, as young people tend to do. Love is patience, understanding, respect and admiration. Love is for the one who is loved and not for the lover. If this involves making sacrifices, then this we should do, for the greatest love is the selfless love which Christ taught us. The false security gained by a physical relationship, whether it be homosexual, bisexual or heterosexual, has no necessary connection with love if the love is true.

To be scornful of God is banal and vain and will resolve no issues. To state that Christianity teaches that homosexuals are hated by God is to state an untruth. God loves. God does not hate. God is merciful yet his mercy is that which starts with a certain acceptance within our hearts and it is within our hearts that we deny ourselves God's mercy. For those who scorn, Christ wept indeed, as his body church does today.

Steve Crabtree
SIU Graduate

Judge not let ye...

To the Daily Egyptian:

Who are you? Just who do you think you are, Mrs. Ashworth, to compare my sweet love for my lover with your own personal desire to shoplift? How dare you sit there in your smugness and compare my love for my gay brothers and sisters with your compunction to steal. Talk about possessed by evil spirits. Wasn't it someone famous who said: "Judge not lest ye be not judged?"

And, finally, in writing, we have your concrete suggestions for the homosexual to escape his "dilemma." Pat Boone. What a joke. Pat Boone. He tells us about some young girl who didn't know for sure what she wanted to be so she prayed to Pat Boone or god and then knew. Terrific. You are dealing with ten million men and women in this country alone. The day is long past when we have to depend on the likes of Pat Boone. Ten million gay men and women will no longer sit silently while the likes of you call them "unnatural."

Moses, in the Book of Exodus, had a similar problem. Even God couldn't fix it. Moses was stuck with a whole generation of people who were so set in their ways that they couldn't be changed—even by God. God's solution was to let them wander in the wilderness until they died off—every last one of them. Good plan.

Daily Egyptian Opinion & Commentary

EDITORIALS—The Daily Egyptian encourages free discussion of current issues through editorials and letters on these pages. Editorials—labeled Opinion—are written and signed by members of the student news staff and by students enrolled in journalism courses and represent opinions of the authors only.

LETTERS—Readers are invited to express their opinions in letters which must be signed with name, classification and major, or faculty, rank, address and telephone number. Letters should be typewritten, and their length should not exceed 250 words. Letter writers should respect the generally accepted standards of good taste and are expected to make their points in terms of issues rather than personalities. Acceptance for publication will depend on limitations of space and the timeliness and relevance of the material. Unsigned letters will not be accepted, and authorship of all letters must be verified by the Daily Egyptian. It is the responsibility of the Daily Egyptian to determine content of the opinion pages. Other materials on pages four and five include editorials and articles reprinted from other publications, syndicated columns and articles, and interpretive or opinion articles authored locally.

Editorial Making it

Most people will agree that a person attending school, who is well over the age of twenty-one and has spent a few years out in the so-called "real world," should be commended for his or her courage and supported through such an endeavor.

Entering college or returning to the world of higher learning can pose for the established mature adult many periods of frustration and despair—a traumatic experience in every sense of the word.

So much of what he or she must do seems totally unrealistic to the awareness of life and the "art of survival." And they find themselves being matched with or compared against students who have little or no idea of what life "outside" is really like.

Nevertheless, they rationalize, "I'm here to get an education; a new lease on life."

Like other students they (the older ones) worry about grades and selecting major studies that will help them get a job later. They want to become more productive in the American system of living. They don't have time to mess around or fool with a lot of unnecessary "b.s."

However, everyone involved in the higher education quest does not see, think or feel the importance of the adult student's commitment; nor, are they able to understand the intensity of the "second time around" learn-to-earn attitude found within these students.

Coupled to this lack of awareness on the part of others, are insensitive instructors who only know how to make assignments and grade papers. The fears and pains that accompany mountainous hours of reading and written work not yet started; combined with rising prices and insufficient incomes, plus the multi-demands of being a student, mate and in some instances a parent, that causes many adult students to find their personal lives highly susceptible to drastic changes or subject to severe cases of displaced values.

Or else it is the discovery that the college "academic environment" isn't all it's cracked up to be, and the decision to "start over" may very well have been a bad idea.

With so many pitfalls the question arises, "Why are more and more people starting over today?" Perhaps it is because it looks easier being in school—at least on the surface. A good chance to escape some of the madness of the outside world.

Of course, not all returning adult students are forced to make changes. Many meet the challenges of college life without ever giving in an inch or breaking their stride. For them the pervasive experiences of being an adult undergraduate or a 45-year-old master's candidate is simply "par for the course."

On the other hand, he may have had the good fortune of being given an advisor who embraces the idea of advising students and not just telling them where to go—even when they're over 25 and independent.

New or old, in the end it is the capacity of the student to feel he can really succeed, despite the changes and problems, which carries him through.

Yet, it should be noted that a significant amount of concern or lack of it, on the part of educators and the system in general, can be an enormous influence in terms of the final results.

"Make me or break me, but at least let me learn something "relevant."

Prepossed perception

To the Daily Egyptian:

As an interested student who has diligently worked in the area of student government and other student activities for most of our college student careers, I feel a responsibility to comment on what I consider in making the decision of who will represent them as a Board of Trustee-member-Student representative. Concisely, the thoughts communication, credibility, and construction are the important areas which must be examined as candidate qualities mandatory for election.

Functional communication lines must be established and between the students, administration and Board by this person. Accuracy will be of the utmost importance. People who are seeking election, "...to mess the Board up" and if elected "...intend to raise all kinds of commotion" are fooling only themselves. The Board of Trustees are a professional thinking group of people who desperately need student input into their deliberations. The person the student body elects must be able to share their concerns and report them fairly and accurately to his constituents as well. In effect, he too must be a professional thinker.

Functional credibility is the next concept to be evaluated. If the Trustee-Student representative cannot establish his credibility with both the Board and the Student Body, then the future trustees following will have little hope or opportunity to work effectively. To have direct input into the policies of this campus has long been a goal of the students of this campus. Now that the students have that opportunity, caution must be exercised in order to make the most of it.

Construction of the responsibilities and duties of the position is that which has to be established primarily by the new Trustee member on his own. The extent to which he achieves what he perceives the position to be will be directly related to the success in establishing the other qualities of communication and credibility. Firm establishment of the position will then hopefully lead to the ultimate goal, the VOTING Board of Trustee member-Student representative.

Remember the position is termed Board of Trustee member-Student representative not student representative to the Board of Trustees. The difference between these terms is the basis of the future expansion of the position. We urge everyone to exercise the one major channel afforded to us in determining the future of the position—the election of the new Trustee. GET OUT AND VOTE Dec. 5, 1973.

What Christianity is about

To the Daily Egyptian:

In reply to Lane Bateman, author Lying In State. Over 1900 years ago, Jesus Christ died for mankind; Christ willingly and purposefully gave his life so that all mankind, whether homosexual, bisexual or heterosexual, could find acceptance with the Lord. In God's eyes, there is only one sin: not homosexuality, not the hatred of men, not any of the many things man has invented to create the illusion of pleasure on Earth, but the rejection of Christ Jesus as our personal savior. God does not hate you, He does not hate your love. And, I can assure you, He will never "take a running leap."

Christians do not try to judge who is evil and who is not, or attempt to decide who can be a Christian and who cannot. Perhaps there are a few Christian-Nazis who preach Genocide for all factions that do not find favor in their eyes, but someone who loves the Lord could never deny the rights of anyone to exist, no matter how perverted that individual's ideas are to society as a whole. Society condemned Christ to die on the cross, just as society condemns any person or group of persons that do not conform to its own standards of morality.

Jesus could have fit into society if he had wanted to, just as you could, if you decide to do so. The difference is this: Would you consciously give your life to save someone who despised you, who persecuted you, who laughed at everything you stood for? That, sir, is what Christianity is all about.

Get a pulpit!

To the Daily Egyptian:

In regard to Mrs. E. Robert Ashworth verily I say unto you woman that thou shouldst enter into the ministry so that thy words shall be heard in the proper place—behind a pulpit!

For those of us on campus who are somewhat less religious than yourself, your sermons from the pages of the Egyptian are a little ridiculous. I seriously doubt that you are the Messiah and you won't (with your sermons) change the religious mores of this campus. Try to live and ALLOW others to live as they wish.

Plea for prison reform

Bill Glidewell
In The Menard Time
Illinois State Penitentiary

After many years of struggle for prison reform, it appears the American public has at last become aware of the ineffectiveness of our corrections system, and now the long struggle is under way to correct the problems which have contributed to its failure.

It is well known now that prison has a degenerating effect on its inhabitants and numerous theories are being offered by experts in the field of behavioral science as to the cause for that effect. Perhaps then it would not seem impertinent of me to express my opinion.

The prison subculture of today evolved from an era when degradation was part of the punishment an offender suffered. The customary procedure for assimilation in prison was to have your head shaved, to be stripped of your identity and any dignity, pride or respect you may have had and then to be exposed to an oppressed and regimented lifestyle where you were expected to function like a robot.

Living conditions and food were inadequate and the methods used to enforce and perpetuate the system were inhumane. Prisoners were simply locked away in these wastelands of concrete and iron where it was believed they would suffer and repent and by some miraculous means would be transformed into decent law-abiding citizens again. But, as the recidivist rate will reveal, it didn't work.

A common spirit of rebellion by the prisoners was born in that era and that coalition has developed into the prison subculture we have today. Prisoners learned to hate their oppressors, and because that oppressor represented authority they came to hate all authority, and because that authority represented society they came to reject all that was socially acceptable.

Principles, ethics, values and standards were established and nearly all of them were in contrast to those of conventional society. In its entirety the prison subculture is negative but it affords the prisoner the recognition, the pride and the identity he needs to preserve his sanity and the strength he needs to endure his situation.

The cultural standards that were established in that era still prevail as the acceptable way of life in prisons today, and they are passed on like a disease to each newcomer through his interaction with acquaintances. Very few have the strength to resist conformity to the negative standards of the prison community because conformity to those standards is the criteria for acceptance and popularity in prison. Those who do resist and try to maintain their individuality usually end up in the psychiatric division.

So when one enters prison he finds that he must generally praise what he has been taught to be bad in life and censure what he has been taught to be good. It is not popular in prison to love, to be kind, to be generous, to be honest, or to display most of the qualities of character associated with the dominant American culture, for in that bygone era prisoners learned to cheat, lie, deceive and manipulate as a matter of survival, and that way of life still prevails.

With the hate, the deception, the rivalry for individual recognition and the independent struggle on everyone's part to escape his hopeless situation, there is very little solidarity in the prison community, and the only semblance of brotherhood or fraternity exists in the mutual animosity shared among the members of two rival factions who are split by ethnic bias, and, of course, in the mutual resentment shared by nearly everyone for the prison administration.

If we are to effectively rehabilitate prisoners, the material artifacts such as the massive cell houses and the antiquated dining rooms which serve as grim reminders of the past must be abolished as well as the dehumanizing administrative policies governing the prisoners' lives, but, just as important to the goal of effective corrections is the task of changing the way of life in prison.

We must educate prisoners to view their situation from a realistic and objective perspective, and we must develop a social atmosphere in prison that is patterned after our conventional American society. We must discard the traditional standards, values and way of life in prison because they are obstacles in the way of effective corrections.

Place on the ballot

We of the Alliance of Radical Students, A.R.S. have been denied ballot status under our party name in the upcoming Student Government elections, and unconstitutionally been entered as independents. One month ago the Alliance of Radical Students was formed as a campus political party recognized by Student Government.

Since that time, it has come to our attention that the Administration will not recognize our group since we refuse to sign a "loyalty oath" contained in the forms necessary to become a recognized student organization. Campus organizations are required to sign a statement which affirms that the group "does not advocate the overthrow by force the government of the United States."

This is an attack on the right of political freedom of expression. This requirement denies campus recognition on the basis of what someone thinks.

As radicals and socialists, we feel that basic change from a system based on the profits of the rich to one operated for the needs of the many, needs to be made. We feel that political democracy and civil liberties are intricately connected with progressive ideas; thus, we deplore this "loyalty oath" as an attack on the rights of all. We are being forced to run as independents due to this undemocratic rule of S.I.U.'s Board of Trustees.

Judge Sirica listens to Nixon tapes alone

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica began his self-imposed job of listening to the White House Watergate tapes Monday in the solitude of a jury room heavily guarded by marshals.

Only his law clerk, Todd Christofferson, was in the room as the 69-year-old judge reviewed the recordings to determine which ones will eventually go to the Watergate grand jury.

White House lawyer J. Fred Buzhardt, who prepared an index and analysis of what the 10 tapes turned over to Sirica contain, was there briefly in the morning to show the judge how to find the start of conversations on the subpoenaed tapes.

The White House has asked that all or part of three tapes be withheld from the jury "in order to protect the confidentiality of advice given to the President."

To these portions, Sirica will give particular attention. Once he has heard them, he will listen to arguments by the White House and the special Watergate prosecutor, then rule on the issue.

The jury is free to hear four other conversations that were subpoenaed because the White House offered no objection. The prosecutor's office refused to say whether those recordings have already been submitted to the jurors.

There were these other developments in the Watergate story:

—In Los Angeles, state charges against Egil Krogh Jr. in the burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist were dismissed by a superior court judge. Krogh, former boss of the White House plumbers who conducted the burglary, pleaded guilty in Washington Friday to federal charges of interfering with the psychiatrist's civil liberties.

—Congress sent President Nixon a bill to confirm that the U.S. District Court here has jurisdiction to enforce subpoenas or other orders issued by the Senate Watergate committee. Sirica had turned down the committee in its efforts to enforce a subpoena against the White House, on grounds he had no such jurisdiction.

Flu shot series to begin again

Students needing the second shot in the immunization series to combat influenza should come to the Health Service or Minor Care Clinic this week between 8 a.m. and noon and 1 to 5 p.m.

Students who need a booster to update the immunization series shot should also arrange to get the shot.

To complete the series a student must get two shots given six to eight weeks apart. Since the flu season Health Service officials advise students who haven't gotten the first shot to wait until next year to get the immunization.

The cost of the shot is $2. No appointment is necessary.

Answering Letters with David R. Derge

Dear Students:

Planned for Tuesday presentations in the Daily Egyptian, this column is one method of communicating with you. It is my expressed hope that each student will feel free to write directly to me with any comments, suggestions, ideas, complaints or problems. I will personally direct all responses to your inquiries back to you through the mail. However, each week I will place in this paper a sample of some of the more general interest letters which I have received since the previous column.

It is requested that you include your name, address, phone number, class year, and major with all inquiries. I ask that you do this so that I may respond directly to you by mail, or by phone if expediency is indicated. It will also help in checking the authenticity of your inquiries if your letter is selected for printing in the Daily Egyptian.

Here are some of the more interesting letters I received during the week.

Dear Dr. Derge:

I am an out-of-state student who transferred to SIU this year. Since the beginning of fall quarter, I have been living with two other people in a University room designed for only two people. Needless to say, it has been crowded for all three of us. Over Thanksgiving vacation, my parents asked me to relay several questions to you concerning this living situation.

1. When I signed a contract for this room, I was told it would be temporary—2 weeks or a month at the most. Why has not one of us been moved out of the room as of November 27?

2. We all are paying full room and board for this quarter. It seems that the University is overcharging all of us for this crowded situation. Is there any chance that we can get a refund from the University in view of this fact? If not, by what means does the University justify its overcharging policy in this matter?

Thank you for taking time to read this

Sincerely,
James Stanforth Martindale
Sophomore, Communications

Dear Mr. Martindale:

Two rooms on each of 16 floors are set up as temporary rooms and an additional student is assigned to each one. To ensure fairness in moving people out of temporary space as vacancies occur, a strict listing is maintained. The system works as follows: the first temporary assignee is placed in a temporary room on the 2nd floor, the second person is the first individual in a temporary room on the third floor, etc. The advantage of this system is that the first individual assigned to a regular room vacancy is the individual assigned to the first temporary space on the second floor.

The purpose of assigning temporary rooms is to utilize the facility to its maximum knowing that some students will not show up or will leave before the school term is over. There is no way of knowing how rapidly vacancies will occur; however, in the past the staff at Schneider Hall has been successful in reducing all rooms to double occupancy within the first 30-40 days.

This year for some unknown reason the loss of students in your residence has not been as great. From records at the Housing office, you are listed in 11th place out of 96. This was effective on September 21 (two days before residence halls opened) when you received your housing contract.

Mr. Joseph W. Gasser, assistant to the Director of Housing, has stated that contract terminations will occur and that within the first week after the Winter Quarter begins you should have your permanent space.

You may not receive a reduction nor a refund for board and room because your contract (see Section 111, paragraph B) stated that you could vacate if not satisfied with the arrangement within 96 hours after the first full day of classes. However, by not doing so you elected to remain and wait until space became available.

I can appreciate your inconvenience and our Housing Office will attempt to satisfy your needs as soon as possible.

Dear Dr. Derge:

This week brings the resignation of Columbia's head football coach, a man who desired to establish a winning football team at that university. His resignation was accepted by Columbia's president because the academic programs are more important at Columbia than the football team. The continuation of the present coach would have encouraged athletics over academics.

A similar problem exists here at SIU. We are supposedly striving for academic excellence but our library, the core of many of the liberal arts and educational fields, as well as an important part of all other disciplines, is many thousands of dollars short of the funds it needs to maintain the programs already in existence. One answer suggested is that academic advancement could be thrown to the departments and that money from that program go to funding the library.

It would seem to be much more in line with academic excellence to do away with a costly program like intercollegiate football and with that money fund the library. Football, especially our present type of football, can in no way be equated with academic excellence.

The Homecoming game tendered a message to the Board. The biggest crowd in years to partake in other activities could only fill our present bleachers. The seats were embarrassingly empty in the reserved seat hall of the stadium. The Board should cancel the further renovation, leave the turf to football and soccer clubs, and then fund academic programs with the money not used to fund football.

So not to be accused of asking no question here, how can you justify expensive football expenditures year after year when the library budget falls below an adequate level?

Jeffrey Scott Tilden
Graduate, History

Dear Mr. Tilden:

We are short thousands of dollars for the library fund because our budget request was cut at the State level from $750,000 to $250,000 in fiscal year 1973-74. However, we have and will continue to supplement this low budget by providing additional funds. This will mean that other areas of the University will have to suffer from lack of monies.

We cannot use funds allocated for McAndrew Stadium for books, microscopes, salaries, or anything of that nature. The money being used for renovation comes from a Trust Fund established by the Board of Trustees on the recommendation of the previous administration. It contains athletic fees from students and from private donations over a period of several years. Part of the rationale for establishing this Trust Fund came from the fact that the students on our campus in 1967 voted to increase fees so as to upgrade athletic programs and facilities. Therefore, this money can be legally used for no other expressed purpose than that for which the Trust was established.

This is not the case of athletic priorities winning over academic priorities but, instead, an effort to achieve a well balanced University which provides adequate facilities for all of its programs.

There are thousands of students who participate in intercollegiate athletics as well as thousands more who are spectators. To enhance any well populated program which brings growth to an individual at the sacrifice of another is to destroy the proportionality of this University's comprehensive ideal.

Dear Dr. Derge:

My husband registered for 12 hours of classes this fall quarter. One of his courses, a 3-hour Engineering course, was not officially cancelled by the instructor until the third week of this quarter. Up to this time they never met for a class session but waited for the instructor to inform them of the time and place for this class. Finally, the instructor decided to have the course cancelled. This changed my husband's 12 registered hours to 9 hours which places him in a different tuition and fee category amounting to a $62.00 difference. A short while after that, my husband went to the Registrar's Office to get his refund. The Registrar's Office refused to give him the refund (which is rightfully ours) for the reason that he was late in making the request. We are strongly opposed to this! It is not our fault that his class was cancelled and it shouldn't make any difference as to when you report the change. We have given up trying to talk to the Registrar's Office and now are asking you if you will please help us. I, myself, am too in school and $62.00 means a great deal to us especially with these high prices today. Rightfully, the $62.00 belongs to us and not the University. We would appreciate it greatly if you would help us out in this matter. Thank you.

Cecelia A. Beaird

Dear Mrs. Beaird:

I have contacted the Registrar's Office. It is my understanding that any student may receive a refund if a fee category is changed from a course being dropped. However, this action must be taken within two weeks of the quarter's starting date.

In your husband's case, the cancellation of a course, by the instructor, after three weeks extends over this two week grace period.

Therefore, your husband is apparently not at fault. Please stop by and see Mrs. Elsie A. Gehl in the Admissions and Records Office and she will look into the matter so that your refund may be processed.

Dear Dr. Derge:

Being a former Greek yourself, and coming as an administrator from a predominantly strong Greek system at Indiana University, what are your plans and opinions for developing the Inter-Greek system here at SIU? It seems to me there is an unnoticed potential on this campus as evidenced by the recent establishment of two larger national fraternities here, and this could be very beneficial to the future image of Southern Illinois University.

Doug Davis
Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity
Senior, Design

Dear Mr. Davis:

A strong and well organized Greek system does bring a certain measure of stature and prestige to our University. In this light, I will be supportive of any development in this area if that is what the students desire.

If you have any questions, ideas, suggestions or problems write to me. I will be happy to respond.

Music, maestro

Chorale offers seasonal lift

By Dave Stearns
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Even if they're Christmas flavored, fine performances such as those offered by the University Chorale Saturday night are always in season.

Director Dan Pressley used this seasonal occasion to program unfortunately seldom heard works by Giovanni Gabrieli, Norman Dello Joio and that Santa Claus of 20th century English choral music, Ralph Vaughan Williams. And Saturday night's concert in the First United Methodist Church was an appropriate place for such a Christmas offering.

A Review

The choir sounded professionally rehearsed throughout the evening, but balance problems—the women overshadowed the men—were apparent. There are nearly twice as many women as men in the Chorale, which is a problem of volunteer resources that the director must contend with.

This unfortunate lack of balance caused the antiphonal effect in Gabrieli's "Jubilate Doe" to be nearly lost. But the 16th century imitative counterpoint was well elucidated by the chorale's lavish tone quality, which was given support by the brass choir.

Although the Gabrieli was fine, the professional and near flawless performances of oboist George Hussey and soprano Marjane Marvin made the "Benedicite" by Baughan Williams worthy of a standing ovation. Hussey's oboe produced a strong, clear and well-controlled tone as it ushered in the soprano solo.

A highly gifted vocalist, Ms. Marvin's performance had a certain delicate, almost vulnerable intensity, which was a pleasure to listen to. Especially poignant was the last stanza in which Ms. Marvin's voice interplayed beautifully with the hushed choir.

But the composition's beauty lies in the choral chord structures, which contain a hint of jazz-flavored sonorities. Fortunately, the Chorale's balance problem was at the minimum during this piece, and the rich chords were in full illumination.

Pressley must be commended for programming this unusual and highly interesting piece and for executing it well. His chorale, like the Collegium Musicum, is an ensemble that not only presents moving performances, but also gives audiences new musical discoveries.

Pressley's use of dynamics was quite different from past performances of the work, namely the London Symphony Orchestra's version on Angel Records conducted by David Wilcocks. Pressley avoided the phrase by phrase style of quick flashy swells in volume for a more far-sighted conception. Perhaps his method of gradually building the dynamics was less precarious than Wilcocks' interpretation, especially in view of the fact that Pressley replaced the score's orchestrations with a pipe organ.

Norman Dello Joio's "To Saint Cecilia" a piece that has yet to be performed for phonograph records, features the accompanying brass choir alternately opposing and supporting the chorus. "To Saint Cecilia" also contains frequent key changes and several passages seem irrelevant to the piece as a whole—upon an initial listening. This was particularly true of the brass choir's occasionally clashing interplay with the singers.

Students to direct Shryock concert

By Dave Stearns
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Instead of having a concert conducted by one director (as is the norm) the University Wind Ensemble concert at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Shryock Auditorium will be conducted by seven individuals.

This unusual procedure was prompted by the ensemble's director, Mel Seiner, who wants music education majors to "get their feet wet and see what it is like to conduct a live concert."

"I let the student conductors do their own preparing. I don't tell them how to do it because I want them to work it out themselves and put their musicianship behind their performances. The only time I make suggestions is if I think they are way off in left field," Seiner said.

Norman Dello Joio's "The Louvre" will be conducted by Richard Reese. The Wind Ensemble will perform a band version of the work, which was transcribed by the Emmy Award winning score featured in an NBC television special about the Louvre in November of 1964.

The first five movements of the piece cover the period of the Louvre's development during the Renaissance, and the themes are borrowed from composers of that period.

Frank Winchester will conduct Percy Grainger's "Handel in the Strand," a piece whose title was inspired by the fact that the music "seemed to reflect both Handel and English musical comedy." The Strand is a street in London which is the home of English musical comedy, as if jovial old Handel were careering down the stand to the strains of modern English popular music," according to the composer's notes.

Randy Blue will conduct "Of This Time" by Paul Whear, who was named as one of America's top composers for band by Fanfare Magazine.

The concert is free and open to the public.

Refunds possible

Nixon tax figures released

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon apparently was entitled to sizeable refunds from the U.S. Treasury in each of the past three years for overwithholding of taxes from his $200,000 annual salary, calculations showed Monday.

The independent computations indicated the refunds could have ranged upward from about $45,000 for each year. But it was not learned whether Nixon took the refunds as a lump sum check, in the form of U.S. saving bonds, or applied them to possible future taxes.

The calculations were based on the Internal Revenue Service's standard withholding figures and on a breakdown of Nixon's tax payments disclosed last weekend by the Associated Press.

White House documents being prepared as part of Nixon's vow to disprove allegations about his personal finances list the President as paying $72,686 in federal income taxes for 1969; $789 for 1970; $878 for 1971; and $4,298 for 1972.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren, asked at Monday's regular news briefing about the AP report, said the figures on taxes paid "appear to be accurate."

But Warren declined more specific comment, saying, "the President will make available to the American people complete information regarding his financial records, his property, his taxes."

He said the goal is to release the data this week.

The amounts withheld from the President's paycheck in 1969 apparently were not sufficient to cover more than $72,000 in taxes listed for that year—meaning he probably had to dig into his bank account to pay the difference.

But during the next three years, because of big deductions for donation of his vice presidential papers and for such items as property tax and interest, it appears the President joined the ranks of 60 million Americans who annually get refunds because of overwithholding.

Tax law bases the minimum withholding on a standard formula encompassing an individual's salary rate, the number of dependents he claims and whether he is paid weekly, biweekly or monthly.

Nixon's salary is paid monthly. Since his two daughters are married it is unlikely he claims them as dependents, leaving him with two tax exemptions—for himself and his wife.

Calculations encompassing those factors yielded this breakdown:

1970—His tax of $789 could have been offset by standard minimum withholding of more than $55,000, meaning a probable refund of about $54,000.

1971—His tax of $878, if subtracted from standard minimum withholding that year of more than $48,000, would mean a refund of about $47,000.

1972—His tax of $4,298 could be subtracted from a standard minimum withholding about $65,000, leaving a likely refund of about $60,000.

State's Attorney investigates office in Harrisburg

HARRISBURG (AP)—State's Atty Mike Henshaw of Saline County said Monday he is investigating the Harrisburg office of the state Division of Vocational Rehabilitation (DVR).

Henshaw declined to elaborate other than to say the investigation began in October, should end late this month and is being conducted with the Illinois Bureau of Investigation.

A spokesman for the DVR's Springfield office said there are discrepancies in a recent audit of the Harrisburg office's records of transactions with the Peace Hospital Foundation Inc. in Eldorado.

Harker Miley, former Harrisburg office manager, has resigned and been replaced by Robert Burdumous of Benton. Former regional supervisor Frederick Tamen has been demoted to a counselor and has been replaced by Edwin Kleeman at the regional office in Carbondale.

Rains reduce fires

HALIFAX (AP)—Heavy rains this summer helped reduce the number of forest fires in Nova Scotia. Forest officials report 396 fires burned 5,500 acres of woodland the summer of 1973. In 1970, 800 fires destroyed 14,000 acres.

Nixon aide resigns

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House announced Monday that President Nixon has accepted "with deep regret" the resignation of his top energy adviser, John A. Love. The announcement also said the President "will issue a statement tomorrow (Tuesday) outlining future administration plans," presumably referring to the expected reorganization of energy programs.

A brief White House notice said, "The President thinks that Gov. Love has done an outstanding job under difficult circumstances in implementing the positive actions taken thus far by the administration to meet the energy crisis."

It made mention of Love's deputy, Charles J. DiBona, whose resignation also was reportedly submitted.

Love issued a statement saying he agrees the time has come for a new structure to deal with the energy crisis.

"I certainly agree with the establishment of the new Federal Energy Administration and expect that it will be fully staffed and given sufficient authority to respond effectively and manage an energy crisis that is potentially more serious than any challenge this nation has faced short of war."

Christmas carollers' contest could cancel

A Christmas carolling contest sponsored by Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, professional music fraternity, has received little response and may have to be called off, it was announced Monday.

There is no entrance fee for the Dec. 9 contest, scheduled to be held on the steps of Shryock Auditorium. The deadline for applications is December 7.

"We intend to make this a yearly event, even if it doesn't go this year. This is something that has never been held on campus. It's open to all Greek organizations, professional, social or service, and each one will perform two Christmas carols."

"We're hoping that some of the groups will dress up in costumes, for they will be judged on the basis of originality and spirit," Phi Mu Alpha president John Connolly said.

The judging will be done by the men of Phi Mu Alpha and the women of Mu Phi Epsilon, and a traveling trophy will be given to the winning group.

"We're trying to get the Saluki open air bus, which is used for tours of the campus," Connolly said. "We plan to ride around town carolling after the contest."

Interested groups should contact

Connolly at 867-2550 or Les Reed at 549-4794, or send a reply to Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia at Altgeld hall.

Jobs available

Poll workers needed

Positions for student poll workers for Wednesday's Student Trustee election are still available, according to Steve Nuckles, Student Trustee election commissioner.

Any student wishing to earn a few extra dollars should apply at the Student Government offices on the third floor of the Student Center before noon, Tuesday.

Poll workers are needed from 7:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Nuckles said that interested students need only work two to four hour work blocks, if they desire.

All students are eligible. He said the only requirement is that the student have a current A.C.T. form on file. Students currently holding down on-campus jobs can work as poll workers, he said, but they must be cleared by the Student Activities office.

There will be eleven polling places open during the election, he said. Each one requires two workers. During October's Referendum on the Trustee election, each polling place had only one worker. He said

Stock prices lower as fuel frightens investors

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock prices shot lower Monday for the third "Blue Monday" in a row as continued energy concerns and higher interest rates frightened off investors, brokers said.

With little major news over the weekend, and no break in the Arab oil embargo, the market continued its late burst of selling Friday, said Larry Wachtel of Bache & Co.

Chicago's First National Bank raised its prime rate to 9.9 per cent today, and that came as a surprise to recession-wary Wall Street, Wachtel added.

Still, the market's strong slide, broken a bit near the end by a lackluster rally, amazed some brokers.

At the close the Dow Jones average of 30 Industrial stocks was off 15.73 points at 806.52.

Local hydrologist to speak here

Robert Cunningham of Harrisburg, a hydrologist with the Shawnee National Forest will discuss problems of strip mine reclamation Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in Neckers 240 B. The program is sponsored by the student chapter of the Society of American Foresters.

Cunningham has been concerned with water pollution problems from strip mined land spoils in the U.S. Forest Service's Palzo Project in southeastern Williamson County. Studies have been underway on reclaiming acid mine spoils by using treated municipal waste materials and various land surface alterations, drainage control, and vegetative covers.

the additional worker was added to each location in order to decrease the chances of election irregularities.

Nuckles said the poll workers will be more or less on their own at the polling places. Four rotating election commissioners will supervise the eleven polling places.

Using students as poll workers, "adds professionalism to poll working, and that's what we want," Nuckles said.

He described October's Trustee Referendum as, "One of the smoothest operations we've ever had here at Southern." Voting for the Trustee candidates will again be done on computer forms. Paper ballots will be used in the voting for the Senate candidates. He said voters will not be asked to mark in their sex, as was required on the Referendum ballot.

Veterans' financial problems to be determined by survey

Edward Husar
Student Writer

The Office of Veterans Affairs is conducting a survey to determine to what extent SIU graduate students with veteran status are experiencing financial difficulties.

A questionnaire was sent out last Tuesday to all of the approximately 518 graduate student veterans currently enrolled in classes for fall quarter, said John Chaudoin, assistant coordinator and supervisor of administrative assistants at the Veterans Affairs Center. The center is located at 615 S. Washington.

The survey, he said, seeks to identify the different sources of aid veterans are using to finance their graduate level education.

Chaudoin explained that the G.I. Bill provides educational benefits to veterans for up to 36 months (four academic years) if the veteran had served in the armed forces for an 18-month period or longer. However, he added, many graduates use up all their benefits during the course of their undergraduate studies.

It is hoped, Chaudoin said, that the results of the survey will be brought to the attention of Congress and the Veterans Administration "as a base to support arguments for increased benefits for veterans."

Chaudoin said there are already bills in Congress which are designed to improve the educational benefits of veterans. He said, "We won't take the results to Congress and say, 'Let's do something,' because the bills are already there." He added that the information from the survey will be available to congressmen "if they need proof."

Chaudoin said the survey will also serve "to provide information on the financial situation of graduate veterans and will be the springboard for determining new surveys."

The principal work of the study is being carried out by two doctoral students in the Department of Higher Education, Bernell Jones and Wallace Baggett. The students, both veterans themselves, will use the survey for their dissertations as well as to the benefit of the Office of Veterans Affairs, Chaudoin said.

Chaudoin said there is no deadline by which to return the questionnaires but he hopes most of the graduate student veterans will reply before Christmas break.

Israelis pay final respects to former premier Ben-Gurion

By Marcus Eliason
Associated Press Writer

SDE BOQER, Israel — David Ben-Gurion was buried in the desert on Monday. His only marker was a simple wooden plaque that bore his name.

The architect of modern Israel died Saturday at 87 without ever witnessing a peace he envisioned between Israel and the Arabs. He was laid to rest in the Negev Desert beside his wife Paula, after a turbulent career of nation-building that spanned seven decades.

True to his usual scorn for ceremony, Israel's first premier stipulated a funeral without pomp. The coffin was of unvarnished timber, and the only accompaniment was the stark, age-old ritual of Jewish custom.

Premier Golda Meir, who had been at odds with Ben-Gurion for many years following his resignation as premier in 1953, wept as his only son Amos recited the prayer for the dead.

The funeral began at the Knesset, Israel's parliament, in Jerusalem, where Ben-Gurion's body had lain in state for 24 hours while 250,000 Israelis paid last respects.

Past and present leaders of Israel, diplomats, soldiers and foreign dignitaries gathered in the plaza of the Knesset for the ceremony, while the nation watched on television.

Mary Alexander, head nurse at the Carbondale Minor Care Clinic awaits the arrival of patients for the clinic. Ms. Alexander says the facility is now serving less than half the number of patients which the clinic staff is capable of handling, although it offers a number of advantages over the SIU Health Center. (Staff Photo by Rick Levine)

Waiting to help you

Few students use services offered by Minor Care Clinic

By Randy McCarthy
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Like Maytag repairmen, nurses at the Minor Care Clinic may be the loneliest people in town.

Mary Alexander, registered nurse at the clinic, said she feels the clinic isn't being fully utilized by SIU students. The number of students coming to the clinic, while slowly increasing, is far below the level registered shortly after the clinic opened, she said.

Only about 20 students come to the clinic each day, she said, while the two nurses at the clinic could easily handle 50 to 60 students daily.

The clinic was opened in November, 1971 as a branch of the Health Service. The facility was designed to provide advice and medication of a non-prescription nature to "walk-in patients." No appointment is needed for a student to see a nurse.

The clinic is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Students needing tuberculosis tests before student teaching and those wanting flu shots and other immunizations, should come to the clinic instead of the Health Service, she said. The clinic also can dress minor injuries, do ear irrigations and remove sores and treat colds and sore throats, Ms. Alexander said.

Many students who could be treated at the clinic go instead to the Health Service, Ms. Alexander said.

She said the clinic has several advantages over the Health Service.

Students coming to the clinic receive more personalized attention because the nurses are able to spend more time with each patient, Ms. Alexander said. Since the clinic keeps no medical records, students aren't burdened with filling out forms, she said.

The usual wait to see a nurse at the clinic is five to ten minutes, she said, less than that at the Health Service. Parking also is less of a problem than at the Health Service.

Ms. Alexander said she thought most students continue to go to the Health Service with minor health problems out of habit. "They're so used to going to the Health Service it's hard for many to change," she said.

The clinic is "more than a first aid station" and students shouldn't avoid it, thinking the services at the clinic are substandard compared to those available at the Health Service, she said.

If a student is too ill to be treated at the clinic a nurse will make an appointment for him to see a physician at the Health Service, Ms. Alexander said.

Amtrak hoping to improve

Students riding the rails home for the holidays should be able to do so with as few hassles as possible this year, according to an Amtrak spokesman.

The spokesman for the national railway system said administrators in Washington are working on the problem of eliminating the sort of delays, tieups and overcrowding which plagued Thanksgiving student traffic.

Although no special train runs are currently scheduled, the spokesman said, additional cars will be added to existing runs.

The spokesman said, the normal train size on the Carbondale to Chicago route is five cars, but with the increased passenger load at holiday time it should be increased by seven to nine cars.

Normal departure times to Chicago from Carbondale are daily at 4 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Employees can increase insurance

Any University employee earning more than $10,000 annually can opt to increase his or her life insurance with North American Life and Casualty Company, the office of Personnel Services has announced.

Instead of the former $25,000 maximum, a person is now able to purchase up to $50,000 worth of insurance upon presentation of a health statement attesting to proof of insurability.

The rates for the increased coverage are to be the same as present rates, said Joe Ragsdale, personnel officer. He said the "Accidental death and Dismemberment" clause in the policy will retain a maximum payable amount of $25,000.

Ragsdale said the increase in coverage is available to new or present policy holders. Purchases must be made in $5,000 blocks, he said.

A "pretty good response" is expected from the 35- to 45-year-old age group, Ragsdale said, since persons of that age have more immediate need for insurance. Questions about buying more insurance should be directed to the Office of Personnel Benefits, 805 S. Elizabeth St., 453-5334.

Energy policy program shift expected from White House

WASHINGTON (AP)—A shift of power in the federal energy policy program was in the works Monday, and the resignation of two top White House energy advisers was reported.

Talks with Arabian officials on the oil situation also were in the offing. Saudi Arabia's minister of petroleum and mineral resources was due in New York Monday and expected to come here Wednesday.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has scheduled another trip to the Middle East, diplomatic sources said, with a call on King Faisal of Saudi Arabia on his agenda. One purpose of the projected call would be an attempt to relax the oil squeeze.

The sudden shift of power over energy policy to the Treasury Department may indicate that the 14 other members of a cabinet-level energy group were outvoted by Treasury Secretary George Shultz, one administration source said Monday.

President Nixon's chief energy adviser, John A. Love, and his deputy, Charles J. DiBona, submitted their resignations Monday in anticipation of the official announcement that energy policy and programs would be placed under a new Federal Energy Administration, another source said. The resignations had not been accepted Monday afternoon.

The move, revealed over the weekend, takes major energy programs away from the Interior Department of Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton, and could signal a decision to back off from preparations for gasoline rationing.

Informed sources said Morton, Love, and Transportation Secretary Claude Brinegar strongly advocated a decision to prepare and publish proposed gasoline regulations.

Sources said Shultz, who favored imposing a high gasoline tax, despite advice from presidential domestic counselor Melvin R. Laird and others that a tax proposal could not get through Congress, cast the only negative vote on rationing in an energy meeting Friday.

But Shultz met separately with President Nixon Friday morning, before Nixon joined the energy meeting for 45 minutes Friday afternoon.

Sources said there was no mention of the impending change in that meeting.

Fee waivers halted for adult night classes

Enrollment charges will no longer be waived for faculty and staff, civil service and full-time students in adult evening non-credit classes Glenn E. Wills, coordinator of Adult Education, said.

This policy will go into effect Winter Quarter because of increased costs and cutbacks in budget requests, Wills said.

"We hated to do it but it was the only way to keep the program alive," he said. "After a couple of quarters of waiving fees, we found no other way to make ends meet."

Wills said the average enrollment charge is from $12-$15 which goes toward paying the instructor's salary. He also said it may be necessary to cancel some programs and curtail others.

"The next registration will give an indication of what we can expect," Wills said.

Judge restrains aviation company

PEORIA (AP)—An aviation company where a 15-year-old employee died in a fuel storage tank has been restrained by a federal judge from violating the Fair Labor Standards Act.

The restraining order, against Byerly Aviation Inc. was signed Monday by Judge Robert D. Morgan, in U.S. District Court.

The U.S. Department of Labor had filed suit charging that four youths were employed by the company in a manner that violated the act. The suit was not contested.

One of the youths, Marty J. Alton of Peoria, was found dead Sept. 12 inside an underground fuel storage tank at Greater Peoria Airport.

Volunteers sought to operate consignment textbook store

By Debby Ratemann
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Volunteers are needed to turn the old Hart Record Store, 715 S. University Ave., into a non-profit, student-run consignment textbook store before final exams and book collection begin Dec. 11.

John Hardt, a student involved in the project, said the group will begin moving into its rent-free quarters Wednesday.

"We need people to clean and help set things up," Hardt said. "People can stop by anytime between 1 and 5 p.m. Wednesday to help get us started."

Hardt said eight people have volunteered to work in the store, which will use only volunteer labor, "but many more are needed. Anyone interested should call 549-8194 after 6 p.m."

Volunteers are also needed to publicize the store's book collection drive. Hardt said "We need people to wear sandwich boards and distribute leaflets."

Book collection will begin Dec. 11 and run until Dec. 18, from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. each day. The store will not be open Dec. 17.

The store works on a consignment system and will not buy books from students or publishers. Students can take their textbooks to the store, receive a receipt, and wait until their books are sold. They are sold at any price the student sets. Only after the books have been sold to another student will the original owner receive any money.

Student reaction to the textbook store has been overwhelmingly favorable. "It's a great idea," Paul

Sjoholn, a freshman said. "I'm really poor, so if it's cheaper it'll be a big break."

Tom Jones, a freshman majoring in anthropology, said, "I'm in favor of it because the prices will be lower. I'll probably buy my books there," said Paula Briskman, a sophomore majoring in psychology.

"Books are much to expensive since you only use them for a quarter. When you pay $11 for a book and only get $4 back, that's insane."

Roger Harmon, a junior zoology major, said, "It's a good idea. I'm all for something cheaper."

"I probably will by my books there," Amy Webb, a junior majoring in early childhood said. "Books are exhorbitantly priced everywhere else."

Registration for U.S. exam set

The deadline for registering for this month's Federal Service Entrance Exam (FSEE) is Wednesday. The test will be given at 8:30 a.m. Dec. 15, in Lawson Hall 121.

Lee Chenoweth, of the Career Planning and Placement Center, said the test will probably be the only FSEE offered in the U.S. this month. The special session was requested by the Railroad Retirement Bureau.

They are under pressure from Civil Service to increase the ration of minority workers in the bureau.

The test is composed to 60% verbal reasoning questions, to determine knowledge of the English language and 35% quantitative questions, involving the interpretation of graphs, charts, and tables.

Twelve people have signed up for the exam so far, Chenoweth said. Seniors of graduate students interested in a federal job should sign up for the FSEE in the placement office or with the Black Affairs Council.

Unique debate presents

Santa Claus vs. Jesus

By Fred Lynch
Student Writer

What is surely a "dream debate" is scheduled for 8 p.m. Friday in the Home Economics Lounge.

It's Santa Claus versus Jesus Christ.

Santa will offer his philosophy of life and Jesus will present an alternative to mankind, according to Dave Scott, director of Campus Crusade for Christ, which is sponsoring the event. The theme of the College Life meeting is "an alternative Christmas," Scott said.

A student with Campus Crusade will personify Santa, and a Soul Purpose member will portray Jesus. Scott explained.

"The American people don't really understand what Santa Claus represents," he said. "They have been brainwashed, and as a result they are getting second-best in life."

"Santa Claus is a symbol of a concept which is detrimental to people. It is a symbol of materialism, selfishness, get-get-get and want-want-want, instead of the true meaning of Christmas and what Jesus Christ has to offer."

Scott said one debater has a definite plan for an abundant and eternal life, and the other provides something that perishes and does not satisfy man's deepest desires.

"We are not saying that Santa Claus is a mean old man or a Hitler, nor that giving gifts is wrong," Scott said. "Santa Claus is a jolly old man, but he represents a philosophy of life which leads people to a dead end."

"There is more to life than getting a home and a job in suburbia, having a functional wife, family, and two cars, and just functioning for the rest of your life. The world says this is the essence of life, but it is not."

Scott said that if persons come unbiased to hear the debate, "it will definitely make them think." There will also be an opportunity for interested persons to contribute money for sending food to starving people in Africa, and for food baskets to be given to residents in a New York ghetto, he added.

"We don't need any more Santa Claus," he said. "But rather a revolution conducted by Jesus Christ. I don't mean 'churchianity' or religion, but the first-century Jesus of Nazareth who promised to change the lives of men."

New course on marriage planned

Brent Barlow, assistant professor in the Child and Family Department, said recently the department is designing a course to meet dating and marriage problems of both wheelchair and visually handicapped students.

He said the course will not try to improve handicapped students' self-concepts as much as to help them adjust sexually and vocationally to life. Barlow will teach the course.

Barlow said, "It's difficult for a handicapped student to date and marry." He added that the purpose of the course is to make marriage easily accessible to handicapped students.

The 400-level course will be offered in spring quarter as a workshop and is open to anyone.

High school counselors to study SIU programs

By Marcia Bullard
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Counselors from 58 Illinois high schools will be on campus Tuesday and Wednesday to learn about new programs at SIU and to meet with former students.

Dean of Students Bruce Swinburne will speak to the 89 counselors Tuesday morning at the Student Center.

Representatives from various areas of the university will meet with counselors Tuesday afternoon to explain programs like University Studies, Developmental Skills, the schools of law and medicine and Human Resources. Changes in graduation requirements because of conversion to the semester system will also be explained.

Students who wish to meet with former counselors should attend sessions from 9 to 11:30 a.m. Wednesday in the Ballrooms of the Student Center.

The following high schools will be represented:

Anna-Jonesboro, Benton, Carbondale Community High, Carmi, Central Community (of Aviston and Breese), Christopher, Crab Orchard, DuQuoin, East Alton-Green River, Edwardsville, Evergreen Park, Farmer City-Mansfield, Harrisburg, Harrison Homewood-Flossmoor, Hutsonville, Johnston

City, Larkin, Lawrenceville, Libertyville, Loyola Academy, Mt. Vernon, Mt. Zion, Macon, Maine Township North, Maine Township West, Marion Senior High, Meredosia-Chambersburg, Metropolis Community High, Monticello, New Berlin, Oakland, Pekin Community High, Pinkneyville Community High, Rantoul, Reavis, Red Hill, Roxana, St. Anne Community High, St. Elmo, Salem Community High, Sesser, Sparta, Thornton Township, Thornwood, Triad, Trico, Valmeyer, West Frankfort, Willowbrook, Zeigler-Royalton, Niles West, Taft, and Marshall High of Chicago.

Faculty to hold annual meeting

The Annual General Faculty Meeting will be at 4 p.m. Tuesday in the Student Center Ballroom D.

All graduate and undergraduate faculty members are invited to attend the informational session which will last about a half hour. Administrators and the public are also invited.

JoAnne Thorpe, chairperson of the Faculty Senate, said she would give a brief report on the senate's activities, along with her view of the senate and faculty's roles in the coming year.

In addition to her talk, there will be time for general discussion of various issues. Other senate officers and committee chairmen will be on hand to answer questions.

Blue Oyster to jam tonight at Shryock

By Linda Lipman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

About 300 tickets are still available for the Blue Oyster Cult concert at 8 p.m. in Shryock Auditorium.

The tickets will be sold at the Central Ticket office in the Student Center from 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. and at 7 p.m. at Shryock, (if any are left).

Natives of Long Island, the Cult have received rave reviews in "Creem," "Fusion," and "Rolling Stone" on both their 1972, "Blue Oyster Cult" and 1973 "Tyranny and Mutation" albums on the Columbia label.

In a poll concerning the "heaviest" rock group of this year, Phonograph Record Magazine said, "if any group has the potential to match the recorded work of Led Zep and Black Sabbath, and much more importantly to possibly transcend the whole heavy metal field, Blue Oyster Cult should be it."

The Cult's music has been primarily influenced by heavy rock groups like Black Sabbath and Alice Cooper. The strengths of the group center around guitar work by Buck Dharma and lyrics for the group, Sandy Pearlman and Richard Meltzer.

The concert will open with Mother Goose, a local rock band.

Fuel cuts cause police to expand foot patrol beats

Carbondale police began expanded foot patrols Monday evening as an alternative to recent cuts in the police vehicle fuel allotment, said Capt. Edward Hogan, operations commander for Carbondale police.

Three foot patrols were expanded from string beats to area beats, Hogan said. A string beat covers one street on both sides whereas an area beat includes all the streets within one square section.

The patrols were enlarged to meet the department's fuel allocation reduction, Hogan explained. Last Saturday, police vehicle gasoline allotment was cut 35 per cent as part of nationwide conservation measures.

Hogan said the three new patrols along with a previous foot beat will comprise as large an area as "manpower will permit."

U.S. officials express optimism for Mid-East talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States expects Israel and Egypt to resume their talks along the Suez Road later this week and the Middle East peace conference to open in Geneva without a hitch, U.S. officials said Monday.

Meanwhile, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is making plans to visit Israel, Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Syria, Jordan and possibly Lebanon in advance of the conference, which is set to begin Dec. 17 or 18.

Kissinger will leave Washington on Saturday, stopping first in Brussels for a meeting of North Atlantic Treaty Organization ministers and in London to make a speech to an Anglo-American friendship group.

Egypt broke off the Kilometer 101 talks last Thursday, accusing Israel of not fulfilling its commitment in a Kissinger-arranged cease-fire agreement to withdraw from territory taken in the last hours of the October war.

Egyptian officials and government-controlled newspapers strongly hinted over the weekend, that Egypt would boycott Geneva as well as not resume the Suez road talks.

But, George S. Vest, the state department spokesman, said state department officials are hopeful that the talks at Kilometer 101 will resume later this week, and that these will lead to a peace conference. He added that he was expressing an expectation as well.

Although officials would not say so directly, the optimism apparently arises from a meeting in Cairo between U.S. Ambassador Hermann F. Eilts and President Anwar Sadat. Eilts also has had several sessions with Ismail Fahmy, the Egyptian foreign minister.

While in New York last weekend Kissinger conferred by telephone with U.N. Secretary Gen. Kurt Waldheim. Beyond that, Vest said,

"a number of exchanges are taking place."

Vest dismissed reports that Kissinger was prepared to offer a specific U.S. plan while in the Middle East or in Geneva.

Ahmed Zaki Yamani, the Saudi Arabian petroleum minister, was due to arrive in New York late Monday following a European tour. He will see Kissinger either Wednesday or Thursday here.

Campus Briefs

Gerald Courts, chairman, and Raymond Maleike, assistant professor of the Plant and Soil Science Department, are attending the 23rd Eastern Region Annual Meeting of the International Plant Propagators Society in Chicago Wednesday to Friday.

Both are specialists in ornamental horticulture. Courts, a member of the SIU faculty since 1968, was advanced to department chairman last January. Maleike came to the SIU faculty in September from Virginia Polytechnic Institute at Blacksburg as an ornamental horticulture specialist to fill the vacancy created by the advancement of Courts to chairman.

L.L. Schechmeister, professor of microbiology, and Louis E. Strack, associate professor of animal industries and physiology, are joint authors with a former SIU doctoral student in microbiology of a research article published in the current issue of the American Journal of Veterinary Research. Sharing the authorship is Joseph R. Kolar, who recently received a Ph.D. degree at SIU and currently is with the dental research center of the University of North Carolina School of Dentistry at Chapel Hill, N.C.

The article title is "Field Experiments with Formalin-Killed Virus Vaccine Against Infectious Bovine Rhinotracheitis, Bovine Viral Diarrhea, and Parainfluenza-3." It recounts the results of testing the special vaccine for treating respiratory infections in cattle on a herd of dairy animals at SIU to determine its effect on newborn calf losses. They report no serious adverse effects from the treatment on pregnant cows.

Alumnus Carl Meier, a native of Altamont who is general manager of one of the major dairy farming operations in Hawaii, visited the School of Agriculture Thursday while on a business trip to recruit specially trained personnel for the dairy business.

Meier is a 1960 graduate of the SIU School of Agriculture, majoring in agriculture industries and farm management. After serving a hitch in the U.S. Marines, working two years with the Farm Bureau Farm Management Service, and taking two armed service tours of duty in the Vietnam conflict, Meier took a management position with the major dairy operation on Oahu in Hawaii in 1967. The dairy farming enterprise, operated by a major U.S. dairy food corporation, is made up of two units with a total of 1,500 to 2,000 milk cows.

Meier said the Hawaiian Island produce all the dairy foods used by the populace. The dairy farms he manages produce all their herd replacements. All feed, except for some pasture for cattle, is purchased and fed in drylot. All laborers and milkers are union members and are most workers in Hawaii. Food prices are comparable to costs in the continental states but housing is scarce and expensive.

School teaches mining

PRESCOTT, Ariz. (AP)—Gold mining in the foothills around this central Arizona community isn't what it once was, but some of its effects have rubbed off on Yavapai College.

The school offers a noncredit class in gold mining. Classwork, he says, primarily involves studying the mineral and mining history.

Senator summons records involving job classifications

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—State Sen. Karl Berning, chairman of the Committee on Pensions and Personnel, subpoenaed Monday Personnel Department records on a plan to remove 34 job classifications from the Civil Service system.

Berning, a Deerfield Republican, issued the subpoena after department members failed to accept an invitation to testify at a hearing on the job reclassification.

The personnel department declined immediate comment on whether it would comply with the subpoena.

The subpoena requested "any and all documents" related to the exemption of the 34 job classifications from jurisdiction under the state Personnel Code as well as documents related to the employment or attempted employment of minority groups in those jobs.

Personnel Director Nolan B. Jones had signed the order changing the job reclassification. He said the jobs were those "whose principal requirement is good physical condition."

He said there were actually only 32 job classifications involved, since the position of janitress and park guide were eliminated.

Jones said removing the jobs from the Personnel Code would enable the department to hire more members of minority groups who would be unable otherwise to qualify under code requirements.

Some 5,000 people are employed in those jobs.

Jones temporarily suspended his order after the state Civil Service Commission announced it would review the decision before Jan. 5.

Republicans have contended that the declassification would allow the administration of Gov. Daniel Walker to create a "patronage army."

Walker aides have said the jobs involved never were under Civil Service until the last year of the administration of former Gov. Richard Ogilvie.

Gymnasts tumble to 7th in Windy City

By John Morrissey
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

The rebuilt SIU gymnastics team saw its wings over the weekend in the Windy City Invitational never got off the ground. Lapped of depth by the absence of Jim McFaul, and unable to score 25 points in three of the six events, the Salukis finished seventh in a 17-team field with 152.55 total points. SIU came in second last year.

Iowa State took top honors in the Saturday afternoon team session with a 163.25 score, followed by Indiana State (160.05), Iowa (157.95) and host University of Illinois at Chicago Circle (157.30). The twelve top performers in each event of the team session qualified for the Saturday evening individual finals.

A few individual efforts compensated for the lack of an SIU team showing. Ed Hemdb and Glen Tidwell both placed in the finals. Hemdb tied for first on the sidehorse and Tidwell tied for second on parallel bars. Tidwell also finished fifth in the afternoon all-around competition with 49.85 points.

Jack Laurie and Tidwell also placed in Friday's compulsories, held as a separate competition. Laurie placed second on still rings with a 9.15, and Tidwell's 46.15 points gave him sixth in all-around. Hemdb got a break in the side horse finals when Indiana State's Ed Slezak muffed his dismount and knocked himself out of contention. Slezak is defending NCAA sidehorse champion. Hemdb's 9.1 matched the score of another Indiana State finalist, Kevin Murphy, who finished third in last year's NCAA finals.

Tidwell's 9.15 on parallel bars put him even with Iowa State's Doug Fitzjarrell, and 15 away from winner Rudy Ginez of Iowa.

Nothing seemed to go right for the rest of the SIU team Saturday afternoon. Jon Hallberg caught his thumb on the sidehorse handle and had to jump off during his routine. Laurie lost his chance to advance to finals when he fell to a sitting position trying to dismount from the still rings. He still managed an 8.7, but said later the mistake cost him a half point.

The Salukis started off with 25.45 points in floor exercise, then tailed off to performances of 24.40 on side horse and 24.35 on rings, which dropped them to eleventh place after three events.

SIU rallied in vaulting (27.05) and parallel bars (26.40) and advanced to fifth place. Hallberg's 9.2 on long horse qualified him for finals, and Kim Wall narrowly missed qualifying with a 9.1. Wall made the finals in p-bars with an 8.75, to go with Tidwell's 9.0.

The Saluki comeback faltered on the high bar, however, where they could manage only 24.9 points.

Coach Jack Biesterfeldt said the youthful Salukis were not yet doing routines difficult enough to score highly in floor exercise or high bar. As for side horse, he said he did not need to see the team's performance to know it was one of SIU's weak spots.

"We've been aware of the problem all along," he disclosed. "Side horse has got to improve." Biesterfeldt did, however, notice improvement in the performance of Tidwell and Wall.

Wall, a freshman, compiled 48.1 points in his all-around competition slightly more than a point under Tidwell's fifth place score.

The all-around was won by Chicago Circle's Chuck Wanner with 53.60. The next three all-around places went to Iowa State gymnast: Bob Roth (52.35), Mark Graham (51.80) and Fitzjarrell (50.85).

Other individual winners beside: Ginez, Hemdb and Murphy were free exercise, Fitzjarrell (9.5); still rings, Ben Fernandez (9.6); long horse, Fitzjarrell (9.3); and high bar, Mark Graham (9.6).

II-America football team includes freshman Dorsett

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

W YORK (AP) — Running Tony Dorsett of the University of Pittsburgh Monday became the freshman in 29 years to be named to The Associated Press All-America college football team. He also includes repeaters Y Gradishar and John Hicks of State and Richard Wood of California.

Gradishar and Wood are lineers. Hicks is an offensive end. Dorsett, a 5-foot-11, 175-pound back from Aliquippa, Pa., led second nationally in rushing, 586 yards in 11 games and was also a reason Pitt posted its first record in a decade.

Last freshman to win first-honors was fullback Doc Howard of Army in 1944.

Named Dorsett in a record-setting field are running backs Earl Leaks of Texas and John Cappelletti of Penn State, who led fourth and fifth in the line statistics, and quarterback Jaynes of Kansas, who set six Eight Conference passing ds.

The AP All-America team will air on the Bob Hope Special, to own by NBC-TV on Dec. 9 at 9 EST.

Rest of the offensive team lists of wide receiver Lynn of Southern California, tight Andre Tillman of Texas Tech, and Buddy Brown of Alabama, as Tyler Lafauci of Louisiana, and Bill Yoest of North Carolina State and center Bill an.

ounding out the defensive ends Pat Donovan of Stanford and Randy White of Maryland, tackles John Dutton of Nebraska and Dave Gallagher of Michigan, middle guard Lucius Selmon of Oklahoma, linebacker Rod Shoate of Oklahoma, and backs Jimmy Allen of UCLA, Artimus Parker of Southern California and Mike Townsend of Notre Dame.

The team consists of one freshman, 16 seniors and five juniors — Wood, Leaks, Donovan, White and Shoate.

Penn State Coach Joe Paterno, who has coached such greats as Lenny Moore, Franco Harris, Lydell Mitchell, Mike Reid, Ted Kwalick, Jack Ham and John Hufnagel, calls Cappelletti "the best player I've ever been around."

The 6-1, 215-pounder carried 286 times for 1,592 yards and 16 touchdowns, and in one game he only appeared for three plays because of an injury and didn't carry the ball. He also caught 22 passes for 207 yards and a touchdown and completed a pass for 17 yards.

Leaks, a bruising 220-pounder, led Texas to its sixth consecutive Southwest Conference championship with a league record 1,415 yards, including a brilliant 342-yard game against Southern Methodist. That was only eight yards short of the national one-game mark.

Jaynes completed 172 of 330 passes for 2,131 yards and 13 touchdowns and was intercepted only nine times, one of the best interception ratios in history. His finest performance came in a 28-27 loss to nationally ranked Tennessee when he connected on 35 of 58 passes for 394 yards. He holds every Kansas passing mark but one.

Southern Cal's Swann is a super receiver and kick returner, "as valuable to us as Johnny Rodgers was to Nebraska," according to Coach John McKay. "In our offense, he is called on to run, block and catch passes and Swann is excellent at all three."

Tight end Tillman is a towering 6-5, 230-pounder who is equally proficient at blocking and receiving. "I have not seen and doubt I would see a tight end who blocks like he does," says Tom Wilson, Texas Tech's receiver coach. "He's a devastating blocker. He enjoys it."

It goes without saying that all the offensive interior linemen—Hicks, Brown, Lafauci, Yoest and Wyman—are great blockers. In fact, Ohio State's Woody Hayes calls Hicks "the best offensive lineman I have ever coached," including Hall of Famer Jim Parker.

The most famous names on the defensive unit are Selmon—one of three brothers on Oklahoma's front five—and teammate Shoate and Wood.

Coach Barry Switzer calls Selmon "the greatest down lineman in the United States. He's the best we've ever had here, and we've had some really great ones."

Shoate, according to Switzer, "looks like one of those guided missiles—swoosh! and he's got the ball carrier."

Southern Cal's Wood was calling defensive signals as a sophomore last season and McKay called him "the best linebacker I've had at this stage of his development. He has great strength and quickness and is fast as most backs."

Baseball trades begin ; Cubs send Locker to A's

HOUSTON (AP)—Pitchers were the top commodity Monday, with a fistful of trades and an unusually active player draft signalling the start of baseball's annual winter meetings.

Three trades, all involving pitchers, opened what promised to be a busy week of bartering. First, the Philadelphia Phillies acquired right-hander Ron Schuler from Atlanta in exchange for Barry Lersch, another righty, and shortstop Craig Robinson.

Then, Oakland and the Chicago Cubs swapped veteran relievers, with the world champion A's shipping Horacio Pina to the Cubs for Bob Locker.

After that, Houston sent reliever Jim Ray and infielder Gary Sutherland to Detroit for right-hander Fred Scherman.

Philadelphia opened the draft by choosing shortstop Ed Crosby, who split last season between Cincinnati and St. Louis. The acquisition of Crosby plugs the gap created by the trade of Robinson to the Braves in the deal for Schuler.

"We're still looking for another starter," said Phillies' Manager Danny Ozark. "Everyone's looking for pitching."

The deal started a busy day for the assembled baseball bosses. Next was the player draft—a source of talent that has yielded little in recent years. Surprisingly, a dozen players were plucked, at a total cost of $300,000.

Other pitchers chosen were Car Moran by the Chicago White Sox, George Hutson by the Chicago Cubs and Earl Stephenson by Montreal.

Heisman Trophy competition wide open; dozen candidates given fighting chance

W YORK (AP) — The most open Heisman Trophy race in history will be decided Tuesday when winner of the award as "the leading college football player '73" will be announced at the town Athletic Club.

More than a dozen candidates emerged for the honor, and all have their credentials, ranks as a commanding

ite. Though Penn State running back Cappelletti appears to have a edge, the winner could just as come from among running as Roosevelt Leaks of Texas, Archie Griffin of Ohio State and Tony Dorsett of Pittsburgh; quarterback David Jaynes of Kansas; offensive tackle John Hicks of Ohio State; middle guard Lucius Selmon of Oklahoma, and linebacker Randy Gradishar of Ohio State.

Quite a few others also will receive support, including quarterbacks Jesse Freitas of San Diego State and Danny White or Arizona State; running backs Anthony Davis of Southern California and Woody Green of Arizona State, and center Bill Wyman of Texas.

Michigan bounces Salukis in opener

By Mark Tupper
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

The SIU basketball Salukis dropped their first opener in ten years Saturday to the University of Michigan Wolverines 86-74 in Ann Arbor, Mich.

The Wolverines featured All-American contender Campy Russell, who dazzled the 5,707 person crowd with his scoring, rebounding and movement with the ball, as the 6-8 forward picked up 29 points, pulled down 16 rebounds and added a game high six assists to lead the Michigan attack.

The Salukis unveiled freshmen Mike Glenn and Corky Abrams, and SIU Coach Paul Lambert said their Baptism into major college basketball went according to plans.

Jumping out to a 22-10 lead, Michigan worked a successful fast break against the Salukis who were caught turning the ball over to the Wolverines. Several early game baskets by Michigan guard Joe Johnson on outlet passes from Russell and C. J. Kupek got Michigan three quick buckets.

SIU's first half offense was led by Glenn, whose hot hand hit seven of eight shots from the field for 14 first period points.

Michigan did a good job of keeping the Salukis center Joe C. Meriweather away from the basket, preventing him from getting many rebounds or points. An Abrams lay up with 1:21 left in the half tied the game at 38, and the Salukis were down 41-38 at intermission.

Michigan came out flying in the second half, snapping off six quick points and causing the Salukis to call for a time out and regroup. Lambert brought in Eddie James who, with Tim Ricci sparked a come back drive.

SIU was able to close within one point at 57-56, but Michigan kept the Salukis from penetrating offensively under the basket to Meriweather.

With nine minutes to go in the game, Michigan began to pull away from SIU, as Russell continued to hit from inside and outside. During this period the Salukis were outscored 29-12.

Glenn scored only one second half basket but ended the game as the Salukis leading scorer with 16. Meriweather had 15 and committed only one personal foul late in the game. James had 14 and Dennis Shidier added 10 for SIU.

The Salukis shot a respectable 50.8 per cent from the field to Michigan's 48.7 per cent but the Wolverines were able to get off 15 more shots than SIU.

"Of course I'm disappointed with the loss," Lambert said, "but I'm pleased with the way we were able to meet some of the pressure in the late stages of the game. Our problem was that we did not do a good job of moving without the ball and because of that we had poor floor balance."

Lambert said the game was as physical a contest as any the Salukis played in all of last season and praised the play of Russell.

"They did a good job of keeping Joe (Meriweather) away from the basket," Lambert said. Lambert also said he was very pleased with the performance of James, who came in off the bench.

Saluki forward Perry Hines had to leave the game in the second half when a Michigan player landed on his foot. X-Rays Saturday night showed no fracture and Hines was able to participate in a limited workout Monday.

The Salukis face Wisconsin-Green Bay at 7:30 p.m. tonight in the teams home opener in the SIU Arena. Green Bay had a 28-4 record last year including a quarter-final loss to Slippery Rock in the NAIA post-season basketball tournament.

Green Bay is led by returning starters Tom Jones and James Bardney. Jones is a 6-8 forward who averaged 15.3 points per game last season and Bardney is a 6-9 center who averaged better than 13 points and nine rebounds per game. Bardney also was credited with 91 blocked shots last year.

Although only in the schools fifth year of basketball, Coach Dave Buss has compiled an 88-24 record. The team has played two games this season and comes to SIU with a 1-1 record. Green Bay beat Stevens Point 58-53 and lost to Western Michigan 55-50.

Assistant Coach for the Salukis, Paul Henry said Green Bay is a well disciplined team, and very deliberate shooters. In the teams first two games, they have taken a total of only 78 shots.

SIU will start Meriweather at center, Glenn and Shidier at the guards and Abrams and James at the forwards. If Hines is able to start, he will open in place of James.

Saluki swimmers drop season opener 84-29

By Kenneth Pilarski
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

The Saluki swimmers opened their season with an 84-29 loss to North Carolina State at Raleigh Saturday.

SIU swimming coach Bob Steele, said the one sided score was not a true indicator of the team's performance. "We had six guys swim their best times ever and 16 swam their fastest times so far this year," Steele said.

Freshman Jon Stewart brought home the only first place finish with a time of 4:48.57 in the 500 yard freestyle. Pat Sullivan took second with a time of 4:52.86 for SIU's only one, two finish.

"Stewart did a good job," Steele said. "Besides the 500 yard freestyle, Stewart had his best time of the year in the 1,000 yard freestyle."

Stewart finished third in the 1,000 with a time of 10:01.06. Freshman Dave Swenson finished second with a time of 10:00.97.

Steele also credited Sullivan with doing a great job. "Sullivan is well ahead of his last three years in all of his events," Steele said. "He did a real good job."

"We had some really good swims," Steele said. Freshman Mike Salerno had his best 100 ever leading off the 400 yard medley relay, he said. SIU is second place time 4:40.49.

"Freshman Dave Boyd had his best time ever in the 200 yard individual medley," Steele said. Boyd finished second with a time of 2:03.2. The race was a close one with the winner finishing with a time of 2:02.79.

The meet consisted of a lot of close races. Besides the 200 yard individual medley, the 50 yard freestyle was a close race as Dennis Roberts finished third with a time of 22.14. The first place time was 22.14 and the second place time was 22.23.

In the 200 yard freestyle, North Carolina State came in first with a time of 1:47.14. SIU's Rob McGinley was second with a time of 1:47.63 and Sullivan was third with a time of 1:47.78.

North Carolina State's Steve Gregg set three records as he finished first in the 200 yard butterfly with a time of 1:53.28. Gregg broke the old NCSU record of 1:53.987 set by Jim Schiestel on March 24, 1973. He broke the old ACC record of 1:53.351 set by Jim Osborn of North Carolina on March 24, 1973 and he broke the old pool record of 1:54.7 set by Bob Thornton of Miami on February 27, 1973.

North Carolina State qualified for the NCAA Finals in the 400 yard medley relay, while diver Mike DeGruy qualified for the NCAA Finals on both boards and Gregg also qualified for the NCAA.

North Carolina State is now 2-0, with a 1-0 record in the ACC. SIU is now 0-1.

SIU wrestlers grapple on road; end up on top

By Kenneth Pilarski
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

The Saluki grapplers opened the season with a successful wrestling meet at the Illinois Invitational at Champaign on Saturday.

SIU brought home two championship winners who compiled three pins between them in eight matches. Sophomore Joe Goldsmith won the 118 pound division with pins in his first and third matches.

Senior All-American, Don Stumpf stacked up 18 points in three matches, including a pin in his second match of the day. Stumpf allowed only one point to be scored against him as he won the 167 pound class 6-1.

Saluki senior Steve Jones picked up a first place win in the 134 pound consolation match when he pinned Western Illinois University's Scott Pickford for the win.

SIU placed in three other divisions as Jim Horvath took second place in the 158 pound category. Wayne Rice finished second in the 190 pound class and Fred Hoef came in fourth in the 150 pound category.

Saluki wrestling coach Linn Long was well satisfied with the results of the meet. "It's always nice to have two champions and two other boys in the finals," Long said.

All together, SIU placed six wrestlers "the four who did not place in the meet made respectable showings by getting through the first round," Long said.

Long said, "We're still having a slight problem with execution of technique."

This is due primarily to lack of experience, he added.

The grapplers have a busy week ahead of them as they travel to Northern Iowa Thursday, face the University of Iowa Friday and wrestle in the Iowa Invitational Saturday.

Long is looking forward to the Iowa competition and calls it "an excellent learning experience."

"Iowa has an excellent wrestling program and it will be a real test for us," Long said. "Both dual meets will be a good basis for evaluation," he added.

MVC to be?

Missouri Valley to discuss

league addition; SIU hopeful

SIU could be extended an invitation to join the Missouri Valley Conference (MVC) late Tuesday or early Wednesday, MVC Sports Information Director Larry Ensminger said in a telephone interview Monday.

However, Ensminger made it clear that a decision whether or not to extend an invitation to any school must first be made, and even then the faculty representatives of the nine member schools must agree with two thirds majority vote on the particular school.

"We first of all must hear a report from the membership committee," Ensminger said. "From what I know, SIU has expressed a definite interest (in conference membership) and our conference has shown enough interest in SIU to have paid the campus a visit."

"This is only a guess," Ensminger continued, "but I feel it is a good guess to say that Southern Illinois is the number one institution for this invitation, should an invitation be extended."

SIU Athletic Director Doug Weaver is expected to fly to Tulsa today to meet with conference officials.
